Department Name

The Lilibeth Caberto Kidney Clinical Research Unit (KCRU) fosters research conducted by an integrated group of over 30 clinicians, epidemiologists, biostatisticians, research staff and trainees, including post-doctoral fellows and graduate, medical and undergraduate students. KCRU hosts a collection of the highest quality researchers from across Canada and around the world, many of whom are enrolled in MSc/PhD programs within Western University. The KCRU is seeking a research coordinator to join their team, primarily to oversee the activities of the CONNECT Trial. This study is a multi-centre randomized clinical trial that assesses a telehome monitoring system for patients on peritoneal dialysis. We will look at how this technology affects clinical outcomes, such as hospitalization and infection rates, health-related quality of life, economic factors and other variables. The position will be based in London, Ontario with opportunities to travel to other cities in Canada to onboard study centres for the trial.
