

Canada's 2021 Federal Election Questions for Political Candidates

TIP: Let the candidate know that improving health care is a priority to you as a voter, and an important part of that is supporting health research and innovation in Canada. Tell them why you're passionate about this!

QUESTIONS:

1. Could you tell me more about how your party will support health research and innovation?
2. What are your priorities when it comes to health care? Do you feel health research has a role in those priorities and finding solutions for challenges?
3. What role should the federal government play in creating a strong health research system?
4. Do you feel that investing in health research is important for job creation and growing the economy?
5. Does your party support increased investments in the next generation of health researchers - the learners and trainees?
6. Does your party support targeted investments to those sectors that have faced significant challenges due to the pandemic, such as academic health centres, health charities and the biosciences sector?
7. If your party is elected, will you form a government that signals Canada is a science and innovation nation?
